the boogalin

By. Isreal. Brown
Iz was a boy in Ethiopia. He lived in an orphanage helping take care of the little kids. Is wanted to invent a new toy for the kids to play with.
He wanted to make a toy that would answer anything you asked it. He wanted to name it the boogajin.
Iz built it with the help of Nagoo. Nagoo ran the orphanage.
The kids asked the boogajin to many questions, and it exploded!
Iz and Nagoo made another boogajin that did not explode.
